| DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE | | |
| One of the more interesting early dwellings on Hooper's Island standing in a state that looks relatively un-altered is located on the north end of the settlement. It is a five part frame dwelling, composed of three two bay units connected by two one bay units. The largest is two storys with very small window on the second story. It has a chimney on its west gable. The connecting portion is lower than both sections which it joins, although the cornice line is about the same level. Similarly, the last two sections which appear fairly late are constructed in the same manner, but are smaller in scale. The walls are covered with asbestos siding and the roof with asphalt. The building appears to date from the early 19th century. | | |

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Parr House is one of the most interesting combination houses illustrating the additive quality of vernacular architecture. Each unit appears to be a single room on the first story. It is the most picturesque dwelling on Middle Hooper Island.
